LINER ARABIC CHASED BY SUBMARINE

STEAMER WINS WAR ZONE RACE

LIVERPOOL, March 27.—The White Star liner Arabic, New York to Liverpool, was chased by a German submarine in the Irish Sea, her passengers reported upon their arrival here today.

For thirty miles the German vainly endeavored to get close enough to shoot a torpedo.

The Arabic sped away from the German with a dash that left the submarine far in the rear.

American passengers laughed at the thrilling chase. They crowded the rails, they said, and watched the German shoot over the surface, sending showers of spray.

Once the Arabic put on full speed—she was never in danger, they said—drawing away from the submarine with comparative ease.

The submarine abandoned the chase several miles off the south of the Mersey.

The Arabic brought to Liverpool twenty-eight officers and men of the steamer Willerby, sunk by the German auxiliary Prinz Eitel Friedrich in the South Atlantic February 28.

The crew of the Willerby said they were given half an hour to take to the boats and lost most of their effects.

Liner's Steam Pipes Freeze in Boston Bay

Quoth the mate: "We're late,
And the reason is,
We had to wait,
'Cos our pipes was friz."

All the marine housekeepers on the Bratsberg had (4 turns to and thaw out frozen pipes before the steamer could get up from quarantine to the dock.

It was just the same as when Mrs. Housewife finds her waterpipes frozen and has to send for a plumber to thaw them out before she can get breakfast.

The Bratsberg, a Norwegian freighter from Buenos Ayres to Boston, arrived at quarantine. This being Spring time, no live steam was kept in the deck pipes, as would be the case in Winter.

The freezing gale blew and blew and froze all exposed steampiping tighter than a hard knot. When the engineer started to send steam through there was "no thoroughfare." The steam winches, the deck pipes and even the steam steering gear were frozen.

The crew had to hustle out with hot cans and swaddle the pipes to melt the frozen spots before the steam could do business. It was a cold job, and it delayed the Bratsberg's arrival.

24 SHIPS IN FINAL ASSAULT

LONDON, March 27.—Twenty-four powerful battleships will participate in the final assault on the Dardanelles forts, according to an Athens dispatch to the Evening News, which describes the preparations for the supreme attack as "colossal."

Another meeting was held today by the British and French admirals and immediately thereafter the captains of all the ships were summoned by their respective commanders and given special instruction.

"It appears," the dispatch continues, "that the decisive assault has been postponed to allow time for the arrival of further warships. There are expected today eight fresh battleships, three English, four French and one Russian."

At present sixteen of the allies' battleships are in the Anglo-French fleet.

Destruction of Turkish batteries at Dardanus and at Kilid-Bahr, on the Asiatic and European sides of the Dardanelles, was completed by eighty shells rained upon them by the British battleships Triumph, Queen Elizabeth and Agamemnon, according to a dispatch received here today from Tenedos.

The Ottoman forts at both these points were badly damaged by the general bombardment of the British and French ships on March 18 before they were compelled to retire because of the damages inflicted by Turkish mines, and since that time the Turks have been striving desperately to repair them, but the Tenedos dispatch indicates that these efforts were all fruitless.

By putting the Dardanus and Kilid-Bahr batteries out of action the British warships have cleared the way for the operations of their minesweepers as far as the narrows.

Billy Sunday to Marry Bob Fitzsimmons

NEW YORK, March 27.—Bob Fitzsimmons, former heavyweight champion of the world and rival of De-Wolf Hopper and Nat Goodwin for matrimonial honors, today declared that he and his bride-to-be, Mrs. Temo Simonin of New York, would present themselves to "Billy" Sunday on the first day the evangelist starts his crusade in Paterson, N. J., to be married.

Sunday is scheduled to start his work in Paterson on April 6. Bob, hero of three matrimonial ventures, was refused a license in Brooklyn because he did not have a copy of the divorce decree obtained by Julia last wife. He stated that he had sent to Chicago for it.

Bob admitted that the thought of waiting until April 6 before he took his fourth wife was somewhat of a solar plexus punch, but he guessed he could survive it. He and his bride-to-be are stage partners. He is fifty-two; she is twenty-seven.

Col. House to Tell U. S. Peace Is Remote

AMSTERDAM, March 27.—Colonel E. M. House, personal friend of President Wilson, will leave Berlin tomorrow with the impression that any suggestions of mediation by the United States to terminate the war would be fruitless at present, according to advices received here from Berlin. Colonel House conferred with Foreign Minister von Jagow in Berlin on Friday. He has already been in England and France and is said to have learned that any peace proposals would not be accepted.

ITALY READY TO MOBILIZE

ACTION BY ITALY NOW WAITS ONLY FOR SANCTION OF THE KING

ROME, March 27.—Reports that a general mobilization order had been drafted and awaited only the signature of King Victor Emmanuel were circulated in official circles of Rome today. The reports were accepted as true by the interventionist press, which predicted that Italy and Roumania would enter the war simultaneously on the side of the allies.

"This will be the final phase of the war," says one newspaper.

"Germany and Austria will be unable to stand the pressure of Italian and Roumanian operations. Italy will come into her own."

"At a council in Schoenbrunn (Austria) Tuesday the opinion was arrived at by the majority, including Emperor Francis Joseph, that amputation of any portion of the dual monarchy in response to Italy's demands would be a fatal step and was not to be thought of at this time," says a news agency dispatch from Berne.

Close observers here of the Balkan situation profess to see indications of a gradual tendency on the part of the Bulgarian government to adopt a policy favorable to the allies. It is believed Bulgaria hopes to act jointly in that direction with Italy and Roumania.

Sixty thousand Albanian rebels are said to be engaged in the assault upon Durazzo, designed to force the retirement of Essad Pasha, the Turkish provisional president. The bombardment of the port continues and several persons are said to have been wounded. The residence of Essad Pasha has been badly damaged by shell fire.

EITEL MUST GIVE 24 HOURS' NOTICE

fWashington, March 27.—The German auxiliary cruiser Prinz Eitel Friedrich will not be allowed to leave Newport News until after giving twenty-four hours' notice to this government that she intends to depart. Secretary of the Navy Daniels announced today. The Prinz Eitel has not given this notice.

The secretary declared that under international law the EiteFr ledrich could not be permitted to leave port within twenty-four hours after the departure of any foreign merchant vessel.

The government will pass upon the question as to whether the German has the right of way in case merchant vessels are attempting to depart at about the same time.

MAYO NAMED BY MISS WAHLERS

NEW HAVEN, Ct., March 27.—"I am the mother of a female child born January 25, 1913, and Virginius Mayo is the father of that child."

In this statement, made on the witness stand here today, Miss Susie Wahlers opened her suit for $5,000 against the wealthy manufacturer, whose love affairs with women were made public property by the suicide of Lillian May Cook, who worked for Mayo.

The chief purpose of Miss Wahler's action is admittedly to prove the paternity of her two-year-old daughter. The accused manufacturer was in court with his counsel, Benjamin Slade, when Justice of the Peace Land called the case. Miss Wahlers was immediately called to the stand by her attorney, Robert Woodruff.

Mayo's attorney objected to the question, which would bring out a definite statement as to the paternity of the baby girl, but it was admitted.

5-Days' Fight in the Vosges Won by French

BERLIN, March 27 (by wireless)—After a battle lasting five days French troops have succeeded in capturing the summit of Hartmannsweiler Kopf, an important strategic point of the Vosges in Alsace.

The French victory was admitted in today's official report from the German general staff, which states that the edge of the height is still held by the German troops.

Today's Paris official statement, announcing the capture of Hartmannsweiler Kopf, says the French have 250,000 troops in Alsace and are advancing.

The official report announces the repulse of Russian troops attempting to advance against Tilsit, East Prussia, with the intention of looting it as they did Memel. Other minor successes against the Russians are also reported.

District Attorney for the District of Porto Rico, according to a message from San Juan received at the Treasury Department today. The Odenwald is now in the custody of the U. S. marshall for that jurisdiction.

CAR RACES DOWN HILL, OFF RAILS

SPRINGFIELD, March 27.—Thirteen person were injured when a Bircham Bend trolley car left the tracks at the foot of a hill in Indian Orchard, near Chicopee Falls, early today.

The most seriously injured were:

Charles H. Humes, conductor, of West Springfield, right arm broken.

Philip Whitman, Indian Orchard, right leg broken.

Charles J. Morrisette, Springfield, right shoulder dislocated.

Josephine Montigny, internal injuries.

Joseph Cavanaugh.

Beatrice La Lamar.

F. W. Bartlett.

John J. McGee.

Gustave Hubach.

—— Griffin, one eye gouged out.

Ten seriously injured were taken to the Hampden Hospital.

The accident was reported to have been caused by the breaking of the mechanism at the front end of the car.

There were eighteen persons aboard, including the motorman and conductor.

According to an eye witness, Miss Elsie Hoffman of No. 263 East Main street, in front of whose home the accident occurred, she saw the trolley car approaching Chicopee Falls at a high rate of speed, the motorman, T. F. Kirkley, apparently increasing speed on the level stretch about 600 feet below the foot of the steep hill at the top of Main street, in order to mount the hill as easily as possible.

Miss Hoffman said as she watched the car, which was a single truck, suddenly the front wheels of the truck seemed to jump into the air, landing the car in the middle of the hard pavement, causing it to lurch and bring up against the large elm tree in front of the house.

Wavering for a moment after the impact, the car tottered and fell heavily on its side, the bodies of some of the injured passengers being pinned beneath the wreckage after being forced through the windows.

HOPE FOR F-4 CREW REVIVES

HONOLULU, March 27.—Great difficulty was being encountered in getting chains about the sunken submarine F-4, and it was feared that it might be impossible to raise her before this afternon or evening, according to a wireless report to the navy yard today. The message stated that the officers engaged in the work of raising the vessel believed some if not all of the twenty-one men in the submarine were still alive.

The reason for this belief was not given, but it was thought a signal might have been given from the interior of the submarine.

Men and women gathered upon the shore of Honolulu Harbor during the night and prayed that the lives of the officers and sailors in the submarine F-4 might be spared.

They maintained their vigil during the hours of darkness as the flashing sweep of the naval searchlights in the harbor gave notice that everything within the power of man was being done to bring the vessel to the surface and save her crew.

Among naval officers ashore all hope was not given up, but hope was lessened.

"Only a miracle can save those men," said one officer. "It was possible that they might have survived if the submarine had been drawn to the surface in twenty-four hours, but it is beyond all possibility that they should have survived after being down thirty-six hours."

Despite the lessening of hope there was no abandonment of efforts. Little by little the naval tug Navajo and the steamer Makaala edged toward shore dragging with them the sunken submarine to which their lines had been attached as soon as the boat was definitely located.

naval station for derrick and crane. This was sent at full speed by the station's commander.

In the meantime the Navajo and Makaala dragged the F-4 toward shallower water. This was necessarily slow work, as the bottom where the submarine sank is rocky and extreme precautions had to be taken to keep the little boat from smashing against these and crushing her sides.

MAY HAVE MISSED.

The dredger California arrived early today in tow of the steamer Claudine from Pearl Harbor station. The massive chains of the dredger were dropped into the water about the submarine, and divers were sent down to try to loop them under the F-4.

The divers discovered that the buoy found yesterday afternoon and which was supposed to be attached to the submarine was a buoy formerly used in submarine manoeuvres. This caused deep concern, presenting a possibility that instead of the Navajo and Makaala having their lines to the F-4 they were attached to some other long-sunken craft.

The divers reported at the time they descended the hull of the vessel to which the lines of the Navajo and Makaala were attached lay in about 320 feet of water in the crater of an extinct volcano on the ocean bed.

CORRECTS LIST OF CREW.

Secretary Daniels today made public the corrections telegraphed from Honolulu in the list of the men who reported aboard the F-4. Two men whose names appeared in the list as first given out are now reported not to have been aboard. They are James M. Hodgett and Albert G. Mellien.

Three men added to the list are Ensign Timothy A. Parker, Murray, Ky.

Frederick Gillman, gunner's mate, St. Louis.

Frank Herzog, electrician, Salt Lake City, Utah.

Lieutenant Alfred Louis Eds, commander of the F-4, is one of the most resourceful of the younger officers of the navy. Officials here are confident he has used every available means to prolong the desperate battle for life the situation suddenly demanded of him. At the naval academy he was known as "Stoneface," who was unmoved whatever the excitement.

The submarine marker of the F-4 floated near the surface during the rescue attempt and some naval men believe it was set free by the F-4's men as a signal. No other signal has come from them, however, and many believe that either the deadly gas of hydrochlorine overcame them or the tremendous pressure of the seawater opened the seams of the craft and her men are drowned.

The latest navy report on the condition of the F-4 mentioned that her batteries needed overhauling. Defects in these batteries, experts say, would be the direct cause of a disaster by developing the deadly hydrochlorine gas.

Quantities of oil on the surface of the harbor after the rescue craft made fast with their grappling hooks left no doubt of the identity of Lieut. Eds's picture.

"Gold Coast" Romance Ends Ned Salsbury Asks Divorce

Former Miss Catherine Quirk, Dorchester telephone operator, now sued for divorce by "Handsome Ned" Salsbury.

"Handsome Ned" Salsbury of Chicago, the Harvard "Gold Coast" student who married Miss Catherine Quirk, a Dorchester telephone operator, in a football romance of the Fall of 1912, has filed suit for divorce in the Superior Court of Cook County, Illinois, on the grounds of desertion, according to dispatches today from Chicago.

Announcement of the divorce action is accompanied by the news that Salsbury himself had already gone to Europe, to serve in the French Red Cross. Before leaving he gave instructions to his lawyers and the divorce suit is the result.

The question is being raised, the Chicago dispatches add, whether Salsbury is now alive, and whether Lieze is any plaintiff now in existence. In whose behalf this divorce comes up for a hearing. This speculation is due to absence of news from Salsbury. He left Chicago a few months ago. Nothing has been heard from him for several weeks. Attaches in the office of the Cook County Clerk of Courts are wondering if any serious trouble has happened to Salsbury through his Red Cross service.

Mrs. Salsbury, according to the best information that could be obtained in her home neighborhood today, is now on the stage. She and Salsbury separated five months after their marriage and she returned home a few months after that, along in December, 1913. She denied then that she was to sue "Handsome Ned" for separate maintenance.

Inquiry at the home of Mrs. Salsbury's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Quirk, at No. 23 Alexander street, brought only a brief statement that Mrs. Salsbury is not at home now and that the speaker, presumably her mother, did not know where she is.

But it was learned that the heroine of this shattered romance has been coming home for visits every two or three weeks, usually on Sundays.

Three or four weeks ago Mrs. Salsbury came into a drugstore near the Quirk home late Sunday night, accompanied by a girl friend. She telephoned for a taxi to take her to the South Station in time to catch the midnight train for New York.

In answer to a question at the drugstore she said:

"I am now with a theatrical company in New York."

The taxi came and the girls departed. It was inferred that her companion, who had accompanied her to Boston on two or three previous visits, is a stage friend.

ROMANCE OF FOOTBALL GAMES.

The romance of "Handsome Ned" Salsbury and Catherine Quirk was one of those love affairs of a rich youth and a working girl that fascinates the public and starts out to show how superior love is to gold.

"Ned" Salsbury is the son of Edward H. Salsbury, a retired real estate dealer living at No. 1441 Hyde Park boulevard, Chicago. He came to Harvard in 1906 and lodged in one of the student dormitories on Mount Auburn street, or the "Gold Coast," as it was called from the number of rich men's sons luxuriating there.

Football, that favorite accent of Dan Cupid for promoting college love affairs, brought "Ned" Salsbury and Miss Catherine Quirk together. The fair telephone operator from Dorchester was enthusiastic over the game. Salsbury, as a loyal Harvard man, attended the games. They met in one of the innumerable gatherings following the Harvard-Yale contest of 1910. It was described as a case of love at first sight.

CLAIMS 250 PROPOSALS.

Later the telephone operator was quoted as saying:

"'Ned' wrote to me for 210 successive days, with a proposal. For two months after that he saw me personally almost every day. Then more letters followed. He made me a total of about 250 proposals."

Salsbury returned to his Chicago home. In September, 1912, Miss Quirk, with a girl friend, went to Chicago to visit relatives. Salsbury met her there. Finally Salsbury was successful in his record wooing. He and Miss Quirk were married at a convenient rectory.

The couple went to a hotel to live. It was reported that the elder Salsburys frowned on the marriage. At all events, the bride and bridegroom separated in five months and later Mrs. Salsbury returned to her girlhood home.

It was then that she denied any separation proceedings, saying:

"Ned and I have a perfect understanding. He is living with his parents and I with mine. We intend to live together again very soon. I hear from him every week and he is supporting me."

Salsbury said in Chicago at that time that he and his bride had many quarrels and had separated, but that there had been no separate support suit filed by his bride, so far as he knew.

AUSTRIANS DENY RUSSIAN ADVANCE

According to Petrograd dispatches this afternoon, three million Russians are rolling like a tidal wave upon the Austro-German forces along the Carpathians from the Dunajec River to Bukowina, thrusting back their foes to their fortified positions in the passes and on the crests.

Vienna disputes this claim, however, today's Austrian official dispatch saying that all Russian attacks in the Carpathians have been repulsed, and that the Russian left wing has been driven back across the Dneister River.

To meet the great Russian army, the Germans are withdrawing the major part of their forces from the Vistula-Niemen front, where the Spring thaws have caused a cessation of operations at most points. According to reports received by the Russian War Office from various commanders along the front in Poland, the Germans there now number only 438,000 men in fourteen and a half corps.

As the total strength of the Germans in the eastern war theatre is estimated at 3,500,000 men, Russian officials believe that the other 2,920,000 have concentrated on the Dunajec and Carpathian front.

The official Russian view of the situation was voiced by Minister of War Sukhomlinoff, who said:

"An immediate triumph for the Russian army need not be expected, but an ultimate triumph is certain. We do not underestimate the qualifications of our German foes. It is upon them that the task of defending Hungary and Cracow will fall.

"The Austrians must be reckoned with as fighters as long as any of their corps remain whole. Their morale has been badly impaired by successive defeats and the loss of Przemysl, but nevertheless they have an army that is of unquestionable strength."

General Sukhomlinoff declares that the victory of the Russians at Lupkow pass would open Hungarian one, but intimated that severe fighting might be expected before the Russians got through the pass to Hungary.

VICTORY CLAIMED BY BOTH IN EGYPT

LONDON, March 27.—Turkish troops, defeated in their campaign against the town of Suez on March 23, have abandoned their efforts in that direction and retreated to Nekht, according to an official report from Cairo issued by the government press bureau today.

It states that only three British soldiers were killed in the fighting at El Kubri and sixteen wounded, while the enemy lost fifty killed.

From Constantinople via Berlin and Amsterdam there came an official announcement from the War Office of the "resumption of the Turkish campaign against Egypt with marked success for the Ottoman troops and the destruction of the entire British column at one point and a repulse of British troops at another. In the latter conflict 260 British soldiers were killed. The official statement:

A detachment of Turkish troops during the operations against the Suez Canal encountered a British column near Madan. This column was completely destroyed.

Co-operating with loyal tribesmen the Turkish troops surprised the enemy southeast and north of Nuachin on March 14, capturing the positions there. The enemy was driven back seven miles to Nuachin and 300 British soldiers were killed.

SAILS TO NURSE BRITISH SOLDIERS

Miss Edna Helena Harrison of Winter Hill, Somerville, for the past three years head nurse in the out patient department at the Massachusetts General Hospital, sails today from New York on the steamship St. Paul for Liverpool. She will nurse British soldiers at the American Women's Hospital in Paignton, England, which is supported by the American Red Cross.

Miss Harrison, who is twenty-seven years old, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harrison of No. 55 Wheatland street, Winter Hill. She was born in Charlestown, and moved to Somerville with her parents at an early age. She graduated from the Girls' Latin Grammar School in 1902, and from the Somerville English High four years later.

In the Fall of 1907 she entered the nurses' training school of the Massachusetts General Hospital, where she continued in service until recently. For two weeks following the big Salem fire she served the sick and injured in that city under direction of the Red Cross.

ONE MAN DEAD IN SERIES OF FOREST FIRES

Forest and grass fires which have broken out all over Massachusetts and New England during the past two or three days, today assumed a more serious character with the prolonged drouth.

In Groton a man was burned to death, in Haverhill raged one of the most destructive fires the Cape has ever seen, in Haverhill and Bradford forest fires swept into the outskirts of the residence section, and elsewhere there were fires of comparatively minor importance, which nevertheless did damage estimated in the case as high at $75,000.

Tax Collector Wood of Groton lost his life in attempting to save cattle from a barn which had caught from a grass fire.

Four to five hundred men fought the fire on the Cape.

The third big fire was at Haverhill. Forest fires in Atkinson, N. H., spread to the northern section of Haverhill, and Alderman Wood, head of the Street Department, cancelled all Saturday half-holidays and hurried 100 men to the end of North Broadway to protect the residential district.

BRADFORD SUFFERS.

The town of Bradford, across the Merrimac, also suffered. A fire that started in the woods near the Boston & Maine tracks set fire to the home of Daniel Whitman, on Prospect street and the residence of Henry Atwood on Elm street, and the two houses were destroyed.

The shoe factory of Crafton & Proctor also caught.

The trains of the Georgetown branch of the Boston & Maine were cut off by the fires.

On the cape, Harwich was seriously threatened by a fire which broke out for the second time today, after having been supposedly extinguished yesterday. Four to five hundred men from Dennis, Chatham, Yarmouth and other towns brought this fire under control in mid-afternoon.

A high wind swept the fire through the thick woods, as one man put it, "as fast as you can drive a horse." Attempts to stop it at the Harwich-East Dennis road failed, and the fighters withdrew from the woodland between that road and Harwich and made a final stand at the Harwich ponds.

A back fire was started. The wind carried brands 500 and 600 yards ahead of the fire line, so that it was dangerous for men to venture into the woods to meet the oncoming flames.

Residents in Harwich on this side nearest the fire loaded all their furniture and valuables on wagons ready to rush for safety if it was seen the town would go.

The fire burned an area estimated between fifteen and twenty square miles.

BURNED TO DEATH.

In Groton, Tax Collector William Wood was burned to death when he attempted to save thirteen cows from a burning barn on the estate of Mrs. William Paulding, in Groton.

The barn caught from a grass fire which was set, it is believed, by the sparks of passing freight trains. Forty acres of pasture were burned over.

Mrs. Peabody was alone in her home and awoke shortly after midnight to see the fire sweeping across the fields toward the barn. She is a woman of seventy. Her liberal help was asked. She hurried out of the house and to the home of Mrs. James A. Bailey, a neighbor.

Tax Collector Wood lives nearby, and he was the first man on the scene. When he arrived the barn was catching. There were thirteen cows and two horses inside. A moment after he arrived he was joined by Fred Parker, and the two men found their way into the smoke-filled barn, loosened the two horses and half dragged them to the open.

The barn was burning fiercely by this time. The thirteen cows were stamping and bellowing inside. Wood said:

"I'm going in and get them out."

Parker urged him not to go in, because the venture was extremely perilous. Wood insisted. "I'll turn them loose anyway," he said and went back into the barn.

Parker never saw him again. This morning his body was found among the ashes and the thirteen cows were also burned to death.

Mrs. Beering in Collapse Divorce Case Is Adjourned

Mrs. Frederick W. Beering, Jr., respondent in divorce suit brought by husband, now on trial.

Mrs. Mary J. Beering, wife of Dr. Frederick William Beering, Jr., of Jamaica Plain, who is suing her for divorce, fainted on the stand today while she was testifying in the trial of the case before Judge Chase. Her collapse led to an immediate adjournment of the trial until Monday morning.

At the time Mrs. Beering was being cross-examined. She was relating an incident at her Jamaica Plain home when she quoted the doctor as calling out to her:

"I'd rather give my mistress $10 than ten cents to you."

She repeated this, then began to sway in the witness chair. Her eyes closed and she was saved from falling by assistance from her aged mother and her sister and several court officers. She was revived in an ante-room. Dr. Beering, who was seated in the courtroom, did not go to her assistance.

In her direct testimony Mrs. Beering accused her husband of having on one occasion struck their baby in the back after the infant began to cry and said he had also abused his father after "grabbing" a carving knife.

Mrs. Beering told the story of her romance, of the doctor's courtship when he was attending the Harvard Medical School, of their secret wedding in July, 1897, of how she had told her mother of the marriage five months later and of how she and the doctor had gone on their delayed honeymoon in the spring of 1898.

Mrs. Beering declared she had to ask her mother for money to pay her return fare from this honeymoon trip and said she had received funds from her family with which she bought the necessaries of life and clears and tobacco for her husband. She said that for almost three years and a half she received no money from her husband.

TELLS OF HELP TO FAMILY.

Mrs. Beering was strikingly dressed in plaid skirt of red and blue, blue serge cutaway jacket and wore a broad black straw hat trimmed with red and white flowers. She is a brunette and is tall and very attractive.

Dr. Beering in his suit named Lester Lamb.

Miss Frances Hennessy, sister of Mrs. Beering, testified that the doctor attended little Ruth for the support of his family that she (Miss Hennessy) once had to buy a shirt for the doctor's sixteen-year-old son. She said she had gone to the doctor's home once and found Mrs. Beering ill and without anything to eat in the house. "I went out and bought half a pound of steak," she said, "and Miss Hennessy married? A.—By Father Fitzpatrick of St. Gregory's Church, Milton.

Q.—Who witnessed that wedding? A.—George Eddy of Dorchester and my sister.

Q.—After the wedding what happened? A.—The party then went to my home in Winthrop, where we sat on the piazza some time and finally the doctor, George Eddy and my sister went home on the train.

Q.—Who was the first one to know of your marriage? A.—My mother. I told her five months after the marriage.

Witness was then questioned as to when she first met the doctor's mother and other members of his family. She said she met them in the spring of 1898.

LATE ON HONEYMOON.

Q.—What special event took place in the Spring of 1898? A.—I well remember that. We started on our delayed honeymoon, went to a farm in Dover, N. H., and stayed there nearly two weeks. At the expiration of that time I had to send home for money to get back to Boston. My mother sent me $10.

"When we arrived in Boston we went to the Lenox Hotel, remained in Boston and stayed there one day. The next day we went to Washington and lived with some relatives for two weeks. This was a very pleasant visit.

"We then went to No. 61 South street, Jamaica Plain, to live.

Mrs. Beering next testified that she furnished all the furnitures of her room with the assistance of her father. She also said she furnished table linen, and said she received no money from her husband from the time they began to live at No. 61 South street until her daughter Ruth was born, a period of almost three years and a half, she said.

She said during this period she received funds from her family. With these funds she bought the necessaries of life, she said, adding that she also bought clears and tobacco for the doctor's father and for the doctor himself.

"I also paid off a mortgage of $100," she said. "This was about to be foreclosed. I gave this money to Mr. Beering, the doctor's father, giving $16 of this $100 has been paid back to me.

"I gave many small presents to members of my husband's family.

"Two weeks before I gave birth to Herbert, Dr. Beering as a result of a result of a discussion in the doctor's room table over my physical condition grabbed a carving knife and chased his father. Members of the family grabbed the doctor and made him get down.

CAUSED A RELAPSE.

"This was really the result of his own father's telling him to tell me the truth about my physical condition.

"Shortly after the baby was born one night the little fellow started to cry. The doctor became agitated and struck the baby on the back. This resulted in a relapse for me. A doctor was called in and he left strict orders that no one was to come into my room and especially no cross words were to be said.

"On another occasion I was going to give the doctor three cigars. I had previously given his father three. Something that the doctor did agitated me to the extent that I snapped the cigars in my hand and put them under the bed. The doctor came in looking for the cigars; he located them and grew very angry."

Ban on Mother and Babe Lifted; Come Ashore

The immigration authorities have allowed Mrs. Alice Bell and her ten months' old son, William George Bell, to enter this country and join Mrs. Bell's husband, William James Bell, of No. 333 Hancock street, Atlantic, after a two-day detention that has resulted in appeals by her husband to Mayor Curley, the Massachusetts Congressmen and others.

Mrs. Bell came to this country in 1913, married Mr. Bell, and seven months ago returned to Belfast for a visit. She arrived again in Boston Thursday on the Pretorian. Physicians detained her because of the condition of her eyes. The doctors feared trachoma.

Monday Bell will get his naturalization papers. When he becomes a citizen his wife will no longer be an alien and could not be excluded after Monday. She might be deported in the meantime, however, and to avert this Bell appealed to Mayor Curley and others.

Now the doctors have decided the condition of Mrs. Bell's eyes was due to a minor irritation, so she was allowed to join her husband.

COL. ROOSEVELT RAPS PRESIDENT WILSON ON SHIP PURCHASE BILL

WASHINGTON, March 27.—The charge that President Wilson and Secretary of State Bryan endeavored in the interest of certain foreign business firms to secure for the United States the power to purchase the interned ships of one of the belligerents in the European war is made by Colonel Theodore Roosevelt in his reply to the invitation to testify before the Ship Purchase bill lobby investigating committee of the Senate. In presenting the reply to the committee today Senator Walsh, the chairman, said:

"Waiving any comment on the courtesy of the reply to the message of the chairman of the committee or the degree of respect it exhibits for the United States Senate, whose directions the committee is endeavoring to carry out, the telegram will be read by the secretary."

FULL TEXT OF ROOSEVELT LETTER.

Mr. Roosevelt's letter, which is addressed to Senator Walsh, says:

"The sources of my information are and have been for months open to every intelligent man in the country. The whole matter of the ship purchase bill has for months been discussed in all its details in the public press. Every man who has looked into the matter at all knew perfectly well that we were literally purchasing a quarrel with every ship that was purchased from any of the corporations owning the German interned ships.

"Every man knew the object of the bill was to purchase these interned ships. If this were not so, the proposition to build the ships contained a proviso expressly exempting these interned ships from its provisions. Such a proviso was on several occasions moved by you yourself, who are informed, being one of those who voted it down. The failure to put such a proviso in the bill is conclusive proof that the main object in passing the act was to purchase the ships. Such an act was of necessity an act in the interest of the corporations, foreign or native, who had any interest in the ships and indirectly in the interest of the German governments and of the belligerent governments. My statement was literally and exactly correct.

MATTER OF NOTORIETY.

"President Wilson and Secretary McAdoo have been pushing these ship purchase bills to the utmost of their ability. This is a matter of common notoriety, and I do not suppose that any one will pretend to deny it. Their action was in the interest of the foreign corporations owning or controlling the ownership of the interned ships. If it had not been, then these ships would have been offered officially exempted from the operations of the act. This statement again cannot be denied. The failure to attempt to deny it, and it would be mere folly to get me to testify on the matter when this information is merely that which is patent to every man of intelligence who has taken an interest in his country's welfare, and is acquainted with the course of current events.

"There was no precedent for the proposed action, for purchase by the government in behalf of foreign corporations by private individuals, and never before has it been proposed that our government should purchase the ships of belligerent powers. That the purpose of the bill was the purchase of the German interned ships was in effect admitted by the chairman of the committee in testimony, was quoted by Senator Lodge in his first speech in the Senate on the subject, and must be familiar to you.

"WOULD RESULT IN CONFLICT."

"As for President Wilson and Secretary Bryan knowing that this proposed act would bring us into conflict with the powers opposed to the power owning the interned ships, I can refer you to the speeches in the United States Senate of Senators Lodge and Root and others.

"I am informed that our government was officially or unofficially notified of this fact by representatives of the foreign governments which we would be brought into hostile contact by the measure; but whether or not this is so, any man in public service at this time of crisis who was informed in any way of the sentiment in the foreign countries concerned about the measure, and who did not realize that the United States Senate or the articles in our own press on the subject were not possibly have avoided knowing that we would have been brought into conflict with foreign powers by the success of the measure; that in the words of Senator Root we were purchasing a quarrel with every ship.

"It, therefore, appears first:

"That, President Wilson and Secretary McAdoo pushed the measure.

"Second, that it was in the interest of the foreign corporations owning the interned ships.

"Third, that the success of the measure would have meant the likelihood of embroiling us with the allied powers.

"Fourth, that all of these facts had been stated again and again; that they were brought out at length in the debates in the United States Senate and in publications of every kind; that the great benefit to the corporations owning the interned ships, which were of course foreign corporations, and the fact that the purchase was in their interest, were matters of common notoriety to every intelligent man, and that it is of course childish to maintain that President Wilson and Secretary Bryan and Secretary McAdoo did not know these facts, which every one else did know.

REFERS TO TARIFF DAMAGES.

"What I have said, therefore, is not only literally true but cannot be successfully disputed in any particular. It is based on knowledge available to every one. All the matters spoken of are matters of common notoriety. To ask me to testify before your committee on the subject is literally and precisely as if you should ask me to testify to the damaging effect of the tariff bill on the American sugar grower by removing the duty on sugar, or to show that the sanitary work in Mexico last summer (which resulted in a greater loss of life in the American navy than occurred in the whole navy during the entire war with Spain) was ended and Vera Cruz surrendered, without obtaining a salute for the American flag.

"My knowledge as to the effects of the tariff bill on the American sugar grower in Louisiana and elsewhere, as to the pseudo or real war with Mexico, and finally as to the ship purchase bill, is in every case based on facts which are matters of common notoriety, which are known to all intelligent men who know anything of the subject at all, which are derived from sources as readily accessible to your honorable committee as to myself and to all other citizens.

"I have no more special knowledge to enable me to testify about one of these matters than about the others. In no one of the cases is there need of special knowledge. The facts are public property. Every one knows them. There is no possibility of disputing them.

COULD SERVE NO GOOD PURPOSE.

"To ask me to come before your committee is precisely like asking Senator Root, Senator Lodge, Senator Borah, Senator Burton, Senator Smoot, and all the other Senators who were opposed to the passage of the shipping bill, and to whose statements and arguments you have listened, to come before your committee. No good purpose could possibly be served by my coming.

"All that I could do would be to restate with greater emphasis what I have therein stated. If you desire to make an argument against what I have said, it is only proper to get me before your committee in order to make the argument.

"Very respectfully,

"THEODORE ROOSEVELT."

Boston Woman, Fearing Loss of Sight, Kills Self

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., March 27.—Mrs. Wilhelmina G. Buffington, widow of Colonel Edgar A. Buffington of the Massachusetts National Guard, fearing she was about to lose her eyesight, took her own life at her home here.

Charles J. Scott, who married her niece last Saturday, received a telephone call asking him to call at her home. When he arrived he found this note:

"Charlie, I have called Dr. Moore. Please wait down here for him before you look for me."

When Dr. Moore arrived they found Mrs. Buffington dead on her bed. Beside her was a jug filled with a solution of cyanide of potassium. In case of death she left with Scott a will which she had determined to take her own life because she feared blindness.

She was fifty-two and lived for years in Boston.

Ex-Governor Felker Explains Why He Extradited Thaw

The AMERICAN has received the following telegram from ex-Governor Felker of New Hampshire:

In the matter of the extradition of Harry K. Thaw I considered myself bound by the United States Constitution to turn over anyone escaping into New Hampshire from another State who was in due form charged with crime and was a fugitive from justice.

I granted the extradition solely for the purpose of trying him for the crime for which he was charged, although I knew the State of New Hampshire could not control the subsequent action of the State of New York. In granting the extradition I said: "I have and shall continue to assume that the course of the State of New York in its present demand does, and in subsequent conduct, with reference to the arraignment and trial of the respondent upon indictment for which alone the extradition sought is hereby granted, will demonstrate her full appreciation of the dictates of fair play and a righteous and equal administration of justice."

SAMUEL D. FELKER,
Former Governor of New Hampshire.

Rochester, N. H., March 27.

JUDGES HINT THAW MAY GET FREEDOM

NEW YORK, March 27.—Since he Thaw has been acquitted of the crime of murder committed on June 25, 1906, I do not think any citizen of this State would feel it honorable to return him to the custody of New Hampshire, where at the time of his alleged crime he was regarded as safe and sane enough to be at large."

These words of Presiding Judge Ingraham of the appellate division, in the opinion of legal observers opened the door of freedom for Harry K. Thaw. Justice Ingraham spoke directly at Deputy Attorney General Kennedy, who was arguing against the petition of Thaw's lawyers that Justice Page's recommitment to Matteawan be reversed and the prisoner be returned to New Hampshire.

"The question involved in this case," added the judge, "is whether the State of New York can with honor hold Thaw on the bowling commitment when he was extradited from New Hampshire for a specific crime. The record shows that the Bowling commitment ordered his return to Matteawan on a charge that is not extraditable."

Justices Scott and Hotchkiss apparently agreed with Judge Ingraham for the former informed Mr. Kennedy that the questions later asked was not so much the return of Thaw to Matteawan as the maintaining of the bowling commitment.

The attitude of the justices appeared to surprise Mr. Kennedy, who for a moment was at a loss to continue his argument.

The appeal of Thaw's lawyers from Justice Page's recommitment will be argued in the appellate division on April 5.

JURY DISAGREES IN TURNER TRIAL

After deliberating twenty-two hours, the jury in the case of Dr. Augustus Turner of the Back Bay, charged with performing an illegal operation that caused the death of Miss Irene Richardson of Arlington, reported a disagreement today, and was discharged.

The case, which has been on trial in the Suffolk Superior Court, was given to the jury at 10.40 yesterday morning. After wrangling all night, the jury came into court at 8.45 a. m. without reaching a verdict and was dismissed by Judge Keating. Dr. Turner was in court.

The disagreement will result in a second trial, which counsel for Dr. Turner will move for immediately. Judge Keating held Dr. Turner in the same bail of $7,500. The trial began a week ago Friday.

COULD SURVIVE.

In his closing argument, Attorney Joseph Walsh, counsel for Dr. Turner, scored police methods of gathering evidence.

Irene Richardson, in connection with whose death Dr. Turner was on trial, was the daughter of George W. Richardson, town auditor of Arlington. She was twenty-two years old.

She died on January 7. An autopsy resulted in the finding by an Arlington man and a Cambridge woman, both of whom were later discharged when the Grand Jury failed to indict them. Dr. Turner was arrested after having been secretly indicted.

How absurd to term it suicide!

"Void of justice to the dead girl and because others face the same peril which resulted in her death, we ought to have a thorough investigation."

Mrs. Winchenbaugh called the "suicide theory" absolute unreason and urged a thorough investigation of Miss Maguire's death. She praised the young woman, said she had recently come from Canada where she was happily employed, had good manners and was very capable and well liked.

Hartnett Fined for 'Ambulance Chasing'

William J. Hartnett, who was the principal figure in the Crocker will bribery case, pleaded guilty in the East Boston court to a complaint charging him with having solicited for an attorney the management and control of a claim against the Boston Elevated Railway Company for personal injuries, and with procuring for the attorney the management of the claim for $1,000 after it had been appealed. This is the second case brought under the "Ambulance Chasing" law passed in 1914, prohibiting the acts which Hartnett was charged with.

Issues Warrant to Canada for Horn's Arrest

United States Commissioner Hayes today issued a warrant for the arrest of Werner Horn, the German army officer, now held in the Canadian jail in bonds of $10,000 on a charge of transporting dynamite illegally. The Canadian charge is that Horn attempted to destroy the bridge over the St. Croix River.

If bailed on the local complaint Horn will immediately be re-arrested and held pending a hearing on extradition.

Two Accused of Break at Reading

Nathaniel Graffan, twenty-four, and Amos Fretten, eighteen, both of North Reading, arrested on suspicion of breaking and entering stores in Wilmington and North Reading, were arraigned before Judge Maguire in the Woburn Court and held in $500.

Arthur Taylor Dead.

Arthur Taylor, at one time a leading member of the Massachusetts Bar Association, died at his home in Hopedale after a long illness. He was a relative of ex-Mayor Nathan Matthews of Boston.

TROLLEY DEATH ROUSES WOMEN

Mrs. Hugh Heath of Newton Centre, wife of Rev. Hugh Heath of Tremont Temple, and several other prominent Newton women, today demanded a thorough investigation of the death of Miss Ellis Maguire, who died at the Newton Hospital of injuries received in a trolley car accident.

The women say they resent a statement that the young woman's death was "a clear case of suicide."

"I am convinced it was an accident," said Mrs. Heath today. "And it is not only absurd, but a great shame to insinuate suicide. It is a baseless slander on Miss Maguire's memory and a wicked statement to make."

Miss Maguire was in Mrs. Heath's employ. The young woman was returning to the Heath home on Parker street, Newton Centre, last Sunday night, on a Boston & Worcester car.

When the car reached Parker and Boylston streets, Miss Maguire started to get off. Mrs. Ruby Burns Winchenbaugh of Newton, a Simmons College graduate and one of the women interested in the case, says that an eye-witness of what next happened declared that Miss Maguire was about to alight when the sharp jerk of starting the car again threw her to the street.

SKULL WAS FRACTURED.

The young woman died last Monday and Medical Examiner West in his report said her death was due to "a fractured skull as a result of an electric car accident."

Mrs. Heath said:

"A man who refused to give his name telephoned us that it was 'a clear case of suicide,' and he said he was a newspaper man.

"Just why he said this and whether or not he is a newspaper man remains to be established. He wouldn't however, tell his name.

"It was not a suicide. Miss Maguire had no reason to take her life. She was capable and sensible, contented and happy. To me the accident appears to be a clear case of neglect on some one's part.

"I believe an investigation should be made and if there is anybody responsible for this girl's death, then the blame should be placed where it belongs.

"We are to see her relatives and find out their attitude on an investigation. An inquiry should be made. Justice to the dead girl demands it. It is absurd indeed to call it self-destruction.

"A number of my friends have had experience in getting off these crowded cars in the conductor's car in front of the car, he cannot see if all passengers are alighted and he has only to chance.

SAYS CAR JERKED.

"A young man who witnessed the accident to Miss Maguire said she had reached the door and was about to alight when the car jerked suddenly and she was thrown to the street. How absurd to term it suicide!

"Void of justice to the dead girl and because others face the same peril which resulted in her death, we ought to have a thorough investigation."

Mrs. Winchenbaugh called the "suicide theory" absolute unreason and urged a thorough investigation of Miss Maguire's death. She praised the young woman, said she had recently come from Canada where she was happily employed, had good manners and was very capable and well liked.

SAVE THE COUPONS FROM THE DAILY AND SUNDAY BOSTON AMERICAN

IMPORTANT: In order that everyone may be able to take advantage of the big DOUBLE VOTE VALUE offered for consecutive coupons during the first period ("Series A"), we will allow anyone to begin their first period ("Series A") consecutive collection at any time during the first ten days of the contest (March 27 to April 5 inclusive) and they will be credited with DOUBLE VOTE VALUE. This will only apply on the first ten days of the contest.

RULES OF THE CONTEST
Read Carefully

THE CONTEST—The Boston American's California Expositions Contest is a voting competition which is open to every man, woman and child (over 16 years of age) in New England, except employes of the American and their families and relatives. The contest begins Saturday, March 27, 1915, and ends Saturday, July 10, 1915.

THE PRIZES—Twenty-five De Luxe trips to the California Expositions and FIFTY DOLLARS in gold to each of the 25 trip winners will be awarded.

THE CANDIDATES—Every man, woman or child (over 16 years of age), who is a resident of New England is eligible to compete, except employes of the American as noted above. Participation in any previous American contest does not debar anyone.

THE ENROLLMENT—Every candidate must be regularly enrolled from his or her permanent address on the enrollment blank printed in the Boston American Daily and Sunday or a copy thereof.

THE VOTES—Every day during the life of the contest, beginning Saturday, March 27, 1915, and ending Saturday, July 3, 1915, a coupon will appear in the Daily and Sunday American which will count for votes.

The Daily American coupon will count ONE vote and the Sunday American coupon will count TEN votes.

The contest will be divided into 7 periods, and the coupons, during each period, will be numbered in series as follows:

1st period—Series A No. 1 to A No. 15—appearing	March 27 to April	10
2d period—Series B No. 1 to B No. 15—appearing	April 11 to April	25
3d period—Series C No. 1 to C No. 15—appearing	April 26 to May	10
4th period—Series D No. 1 to D No. 15—appearing	May 11 to May	25
5th period—Series E No. 1 to E No. 15—appearing	May 26 to June	9
6th period—Series F No. 1 to F No. 15—appearing	June 10 to June	24
7th period—Series G No. 1 to G No. 9—appearing	June 25 to July	3

DOUBLE VOTE VALUE will be given for each consecutive SERIES turned in within one week after the appearance of the last coupon in each SERIES. For example: A set of (A) coupons numbered "Series A, No. 1" to "Series A, No. 15" inclusive will count as 60 votes, if received in one package as directed below, whereas 15 daily and 3 Sunday coupons not consecutively numbered will count as only 23 votes (their face value). But in any event all the coupons must be turned in within the set time limit. For example: ALL (A) coupons must be turned in not later than 11 P. M. April 17. ALL (A) coupons received after this date and time will be refused; a similar rule applies to the other six SERIES.

Votes sent in daily during each period will count only for their face value.

Votes cannot be transferred from one contestant to another after receipt of same by the American.

The vote value of coupons will remain unchanged throughout the entire contest.

HOW TO SEND VOTE COUPONS—At the end of each contest period, collect all votes of that particular series, then put all your "Series A No. 1" coupons together, tie them in some manner and attach a slip of paper showing the number of "Series A No. " coupons contained in that package. Do the same with "Series A No. 2" coupons, and the same with "Series A No. 3, 4, 5" and so on up to and including "Series A No. 15," the last one of that series. Then wrap them all in one bundle and write or stamp, on the outside of this bundle, your name and address and the number of consecutive vote said to be contained therein.

WHERE TO SEND THE VOTES—Bring them to the Expositions Contest Headquarters at No. 5 Winthrop square (just around the corner from the American's main office at Winthrop and Devonshire), or, if sent by mail, send to American Expositions Contest, P. O. Box 3047, Boston.

THE WINNERS—The 25 candidates who receive the largest number of votes will be awarded the 25 prizes. In the event of a tie vote for any contestants who win being tied, similar prizes will be given to each whose are tied.

SPECIAL NOTICE—The American will not be responsible for the receipt of any packages unless sent by registered mail or express.

No persons can win more than one prize.

The American reserves the right to amend these rules and conditions from time to time, if it may seem necessary, in order to protect all contestants from any possible contingency which may arise. The Contest Editor will decide all disputed questions carefully and in good faith and his decisions will be final and conclusive.

Four Tone Poems Feature Program at the Symphony

By FREDERICK JOHNS.

Four tone poems by Max Reger were the feature of the Symphony concert yesterday. They were entitled "The Hermit Fiddling Before the Statue of the Madonna," "Sport of the Waves," "The Island of the Dead" and "Bacchante." All four were inspired by four pictures by Arnold Boecklin, a romantic painter, who enjoys tremendous popularity among German musicians.

To be fair to Reger, lantern slides of the paintings might be thrown upon a screen to illustrate his music. He is an extreme modernist, a man whose bent is abstruse orchestration. Any of the four titles might have been shuffled without seriously disarranging the impressions received by most of us. Nevertheless there is much that is interesting in the orchestral treatment of these little works, which are sketches rather than tone poems.

The second Symphony of Borodin occupied the first half of the program. Here is a work that contains both originality and inspiration. It is gusty, moody, full of passion, gaiety and despair. The orchestration is rich and the effect of the work distinctly pleasing.

The soloist was Elena Gerhardt, a fine artiste, whose voice and attainments are already familiar to the She sang three songs by Beethoven and three songs by Brahms.

MRS. SIEGEL IS GRANTED DIVORCE

Mrs. Marie Vaughan Siegel and Henry Siegel, the convicted department store magnate, are now divorced, following the signing in New York of Mrs. Siegel's decree by Justice Guy, acting on the recommendation of the referee who heard the evidence.

When the libel was filed Mrs. Siegel named two women, a Miss Mary Smith, trained nurse, and Mrs. Diana Eddy-Brown, the Hyde Park choir singer. Miss Smith's name was withdrawn on threats of the nurse to bring heavy suits for damage against Mrs. Siegel.

The case was heard in New York, and although the evidence and the referee's report were not made public, it is stated that Mrs. Brown's name was not withdrawn.

Mrs. Brown was known before her marriage to James Salisbury Brown of Providence, a wealthy broker, as "Dolly Eddy." She formerly lived at No. 33 Parkman street, Dorchester. She was soloist at the Methodist church in Hyde Park. He first husband, Robert T. Eddy, died in 1904. Fhortly after her name was mentioned in the Siegel case she was married to Brown, and immediately left Boston to live in Providence.

In July, after a sudden illness in her apartments, she left with her husband for Maine, after repeated denials on the part of her friends and relatives that she had attempted suicide, as the result of the notoriety brought on her by the Siegel case.

RED SOX SQUAD IS READY TO START LAST PRACTICE WEEK IN THE BEST OF CONDITION

BOSTON AMERICAN SPORTING NEWS

MISCELLANEOUS NEWS OF BOXING, BASEBALL, BOWLING AND ALL THE OTHER SPORTS

HARD WORK AHEAD FOR SCHOOL CREWS

By "DOC."

Many of the high schools which are represented in the Boston Interscholastic Rowing Association must develop almost brand new crews to compete in the races this Summer. To do this Coach Patrick Manning has the schoolboys out on the Charles these afternoons, even though it's hard to convince the young oarsmen, with icy March winds blowing at them, that rowing is a midsummer sport.

This early practice on the water is necessary because many of the schools are hard pressed for good material this season. It is the toughest kind of a problem for a coach to select men from a small field of candidates, but Manning is one whom they can depend.

But what this year's squad lacks in numbers is more than made good with spirit and determination. That's why the boys have been rowing so gamely for the past week, and despite high winds and rough water, have shown up fairly good.

MANNING BELIEVES IN WORK.

There's considerable glory for anyone to pull an oar in a big schoolboy meet. Also a lot of work. Right now the various candidates are receiving a large dose of work. Coach Manning believes in plenty of practice. He is a vigorous taskmaster and it doesn't take the rowing recruits long to discover it.

Every afternoon now, when the weather is anyway favorable, the schoolboy quarters over at the B. A. A. boathouse show considerable activity. Shortly after 2 o'clock each day the first batch of oarsmen drift over to the boathouse. Soon another party arrives. Perhaps there are now thirty or forty oarsmen in the place.

A few are down at the water's edge scanning the river and wind like so many veteran oarsmen. Coach Manning reams about the place giving orders. Presently a boat is launched. It's the first crew out. The boys put out in their shell in the way rather clumsily, showing a lack of practice. "Row up the river and down three times," orders the coach, and away splash the oarsmen.

BANNON ASSISTANT COACH.

A second crew soon puts out to go the same distance. The schoolboys are a promising lot of youngsters, but just a little shy on how an oar should be used. The latter error comes forth and a little ceremony marks the launching of the second boat. John Bannon, who is acting as assistant to Manning in the absence of George Brignolia, is particularly active when a few crews have taken the water.

Everyone about the boathouse, visiting students, guests, newspaper men and crew managers seems to be doing something at this time, though it's probably nothing more than eagerness to help in a vantage place. Out in the river the big launch is being prepared to follow the boys up and down the course.

Finally the little coxswain gives a sharp order through a toy megaphone and the boat leaves the landing float. The launch comes in for Coach Manning and a few visitors, maybe, and away it shoots after the gliding shell. Through the medium of big megaphone, barks instructions at his oarsmen. For about an hour they paddle steadily up and down the Charles.

RECRUITS FIND ROWING HARD.

The first crew-work is no way at his men for more speed and coach shouts an order to the oarsman who makes a mistake.

It's a weary crew that finally pulls for home. This will be a daily performance from now on until the crews put the finishing touches on for their big races. Naturally Coach Manning cannot predict how many changes will be made in the crews later. He only hopes that one unusual good fortune in developing schoolboy oarsmen will result in making the boys show the same qualifications as they did in the past.

Boycott Federal Team in Havana

HAVANA, Cuba, March 27.—Fielder Jones will take his St. Louis Federals back to the United States considerably earlier than was at first planned. Organized Baseball used its influence in preventing all of the Cuban teams, with the exception of the Almendares nine from playing the St. Louis Federals in exhibition contests, which meant a scarcity of opponents for Jones' men.

JOHNSON BATTLE PUT OVER A DAY

By FRANK G. MENKE.

HAVANA, March 27.—The fight for the championship of the world between Jack Johnson and Jess Willard has been postponed until Monday, April 6.

President Menocal of Cuba objected to the staging of the combat on Easter Sunday, and rather than clash with the authorities the promoters put over the date twenty-four hours. The men will enter the ring at noon on April 6.

President Menocal, in his letter to the promoters, stated that the Cubans did not want the solemnity of Easter Sunday broken by the staging of the fight.

WILLARD CONFIDENT.

Willard is confident that he will become champion of the world on Easter Monday. The big cowboy declared today that he would bring back the heavyweight crown to the white race and he made his declaration without belittling the fighting abilities of Jack Johnson. In fact he praised the "Big Smoke," saying he was a wonderful fighter, but he knows he is a better one.

Willard is in superb condition. He could enter the ring at a moment's notice. There is no superfluous flesh on the big challenger. He is showing increased speed in all his sparring bouts, and the only thing that he will develop from now on is his defensive. This looks to be the one weak spot in the cowboy's fighting ability. His sparring partners seem to have little difficulty in breaking through his guard, and send in many a telling blow on the jaw, nose and ear.

Willard boxes four rounds daily with Monaghan, Savage and Hemphill. In these exhibitions the big cowboy sends in many a hard punch, showing that he has developed a great right hand swing.

JOHNSON EASES UP.

Johnson has eased up a little in his training. The champion is taking no chances of becoming stale. He took two pounds off in yesterday's workout and stated that he would have little difficulty in getting down to weight. He will enter the ring at 225 pounds.

The speed of Johnson money has lengthened the odds in favor of the champion and in some quarters as good as 3 to 1 could be obtained on the champion retaining his title.

The hitch over the referee has been settled by Jack Welsh of San Francisco accepting the honor of being the third man in the ring, and the promoters a sigh of relief today that this matter has been smoothed out. Welsh will arrive here April 2 and will call a conference of the principals for the next day to give them their instructions.

STAR ATHLETES IN ST. ALPHONSUS RUN

Followers of athletic events in general, and the members of the St. Alphonsus A. A. of Roxbury in particular, are showing great interest in the cross-country run which is to be held under the auspices of the Roxbury Club this afternoon.

There is a large list of entries for the event. The "Saints" have entered their own cross-country team, which has been quietly training for the past few months, under the supervision of "Jimmie" Power, the crack B. A. A. miler, who is a member of the athletic committee.

The Roxbury boys feel that they have several men who will be up with the winners at the finish, and they have encouraged their own boys by offering two special prizes for the first two finishers sporting the "buff and blue."

Joseph V. Comerford, chairman of the athletic committee, has been hard at work rounding up all the distance cracks hereabouts and the men will be given a tryout for many who are in training for the B. A. A. Marathon.

Alfred J. Lill, president of the A. A. U., will be the referee in the race, and he will be assisted by men active in A. A. U. circles.

The start of the race will be from St. Alphonsus Hall No. 86 Smith street, Roxbury. The record for the course is at the present time held by Harry A. Brawley, of the St. Alphonsus A. A.

Somerville friends of Johnny Norton, were elated to hear that he had been elected captain of the Holy Cross baseball team. Only a few short years ago Johnny was one of the heavy sluggers of the Somerville High team. His election to the captaincy at Holy Cross created considerable surprise, as he is only a sophomore, and sophomores as a rule seldom lead a college team.

It must be tough on a young fellow like "Joe" Twomey of East Boston High, to lose credit for a record, after the brilliant showing he made in the recent suburban meet. He also takes away from East Boston the lead just when this school is looking for points. Don't get discouraged, "Joe," you can do it all over again when you enter college.

BUSINESS OF YEARNING.

Some years to hold a place among the wealthy and the great,
Some years to wield an influence of real and massive weight.
My only yearning is to gain that carefree, happy state
Of the kid who rides the sidewalks on a single roller skate.

We wish to announce that in speaking of a single roller skate we are not referring to Ted's old car.

Court tennis is a great little game, but nobody likes court baseball but a lawyer.

Jules Goux, the famous motorist, prefers war to auto racing. Jules believes in safety first.

We are surprised to read that there was a squabble over the referee who will hold forth in the alleged fight in Havana. We didn't think Jack Curley had nerve enough to spring anything as old as that.

Mike Gibbons arises to ask if McFarland really wants to fight. Mike is the one of those fellows who can't take a hint.

Freddie Gilmore, who earns his living by giving boxing lessons, wants to take over all other words, he wants to meet Mike Gibbons.

SOME WILL GO ANYWHERE.

Some go to see a wrestling match and some a six-day race,
Some go to see a chess event or some to see a game of golf,
And some, more reckless than the rest, will pay their coin to go
To see a short fight promoters call an All-Star boxing show.

The Caner and Pfaffman vs. Niles and Dabney match will also be played this afternoon and the winning pair will be sent against Williams and Johnson in the doubles finals tonight.

In big game with Nat Niles yesterday, Harold Johnson surprised the spectators with his remarkable play and won in straight sets. Another surprise came when Jones, a veteran, defeated T. R. Pyle, of New York. The latter won the first set, 9-7, but Jones easily took the next two, 6-0 and 6-3.

In the final single match of the day, Irving Wright won from H. H. Kelliher, the Pacific Coast youngster, after two hard fought sets, 7-5 and 7-5.

New Braves Pitching Stars

Strand and Crutcher Shine

By JACK CONWAY.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 27.—Boss Stallings today believes that the Braves' pitching problem has solved itself. He is not doing a great deal of worrying about his hurling staff just now, as Paul Strand and Dick Crutcher have both scored with a big bang in their workouts in the South.

When the Braves reported for Spring practice at Macon, the Champions' chief announced that one of his biggest tasks this year was to develop one or two more pitchers. He realized that it would be asking too much of Rudolph, James and Tyler to have them take turns in pitching for the Braves during the 1915 pennant campaign.

He also realizes that one of his star trio may be put out of commission at any time, and if such a thing happened the Braves' pennant hopes would be wrecked if they did not have some high class hurlers in reserve.

Believes He Has Met Emergency.

The "Miracle Man" has met the emergency, and today declared that he believes that Strand and Crutcher possess enough class to work regularly on any man's ball club. He made this statement after watching these two young stars in action in yesterday's game with Atlanta, which the Braves won easily by a count of 5 to 1.

Strand's pitching against Billy Smith's band of Crackers is the talk of this law abiding city today. When the able-bodied young announcer made known the fact that Strand had been selected to start the tussle for the champions, the dear old inhabitants of this fair village were of the opinion that the Atlanta gang would be able to secure quite a few runs. But they were doomed to be disappointed.

The twenty-one-year-old youth from Washington State pitched marvelous ball during the four sessions that he was in the box.

Strand Has Great Speed and Dazzling Curves.

Strand possessed a world of speed and a great assortment of dazzling curves. This, combined with an excellent change of pace and an ability to slam on different batters to the queen's taste, enabled the youngster to turn the opposing sluggers back without allowing them a single hit.

Stallings has always declared that Strand would develop into one of the leading pitchers in the big leagues. He did some fine work for the Champions last year when he was called upon to perform on the mound, but his work yesterday was a revelation even to Stallings.

The Pacific Coast boy is a natural born athlete. He is built along athletic lines and has tremendous power. He reminds us a lot of Joe Wood of the Red Sox, for besides being a grand pitcher he is a sweet outfielder and a deadly batter.

Strand has always been able to smash the ball hard, and if he had failed to make good as a hurler Stallings would probably have tried to develop him into a big league outfielder.

Atlanta managed to score one run which Strand was in the box. The youngster was unable to get the ball over the plate for R. Moran, Atlanta's lead-off man, in the first session, and he tangoed to first. Bisland attempted to sacrifice, but lifted a short pop fly to Strand. In his haste to double R. Moran off first Strand threw the ball to right field, and the base runner reached third on the error.

The Braves then "pulled" their infield in close. They failed to put out off the run at the plate, as Atlanta executed a perfect squeeze play. Bowden rolling a bunt down the third base line and going out at first, while R. Moran breezed around the registering station. It was a perfect play and took the Champions by surprise. This ended Atlanta's scoring.

Dick Crutcher Has Wonderful Speed.

Bill James went into the box for the Braves in the fifth inning and had things all his own way during the three stanzas that he did the sharpshooting. The big fellow allowed two scattered hits.

The first hit, which was chalked up against James, was on a slow roller to Maranville. The "Rabbit" quickly threw to the runner to first, but the honorable umpire thought otherwise. Far be it from us to dispute the ruling of an umpire.

Crutcher did the hurling for the Braves in the eighth and ninth chapters. He was touched up for a couple of hits, but had the local bludgeon wielders at his mercy.

"Little Dick" has a wonderful amount of speed for a pitcher of his size. He zips them across the plate a la Walter Johnson, which is very pleasing to Boss Stallings, don't-cher-know.

Braves After Four Wins from Atlanta.

The Braves counted in the opening stanza. Evers singled with one out and reached third on a couple of passed balls. Schmidt then walked. The Braves captain and the Baltimore butcher then executed a perfect double steal.

Stallings' men counted again in the second stanza on a base on balls to Gowdy, Strand's sacrifice and Moran's safe blow.

There was not any more excitement until the seventh frame, when the Champions started to play in July form. Singles by Luther and Schmidt, mixed up with a base on balls, a hit batter, a sacrifice and an error netted four tallies for the Braves.

We suppose that it is proper to state that the Braves will battle the Crackers again today. All of which means that the Champions will be obliged to give the local outfit another whack, which will be the fourth in a row.

"Red" Smith Shows Best Form of Year.

Dick Rudolph will pitch part of the tussle for the Braves. Sir Richard warmed up with Billy James yesterday, but Stallings decides to hold him in reserve, so as to cause a few more people to journey out to the ball park today. It is not a good policy to show all of your star attractions in these days of championship baseball teams and greenbacks.

Coach Freddie Roque, of the Arena hockey team, has given instructions to his players to body-check tonight, when they meet the B. A. A. hockey team in what may be the deciding game of the title series.

This style of aggressive play will favor the B. A. A., because of its superior physical build, but the Unicorn will find the Arena boys there at any style Manager Brown desires to elect.

The series now stands 3 to 2 in favor of the B. A. A. If the Arena should win tonight it would require a play-off for the title next Tuesday.

Hockey fans in this city have not yet been acquainted with a straight body check. There will be several things pulled off on the ice tonight that will be within the rules, but not to the liking of the fans. While this style favors the B. A. A., the Arena players will be prepared to take anything that is offered.

The matter of referees has been decided, and Jamie Foster and Harry Denenha will act. Dr. George W. Tingley, the best referee in the East, who has handled the games at the Arena this Winter so cleverly, has become tired of the official job, and desires to enjoy the game from the sidelines.

The game will start at 8:30.

Harvard Completes Plans for Crews

The Harvard crews will start active competition this season on April 24 against the Navy crew at Annapolis, and will conclude with the New London races June 25, according to an official announcement made by the crimson management.

On May 24, both the varsity and freshman crews go to Ithaca to race the Cornell crew. The single scull races with Yale are scheduled for May 8, and will be rowed in connection with the Harvard class races on the same date.

"The Rabbit's" Column

By Walter J. Maranville
HORTSTOP OF THE BRAVES

ATLANTA, Ga., March 27.—It makes one feel good to be playing exhibition games each day against strong minor league clubs down here in Dixie and they possess enough class to make things interesting for any big league aggregation at this time of the year. The big Southern clubs have many former major league players in their lineups. In the majority of cases they are either men who lack the finish to make big leaguers or who were sent down here to gain experience. Then, too, there are a number of veterans playing ball in the South who were stars years ago, but who were ultimately forced to give way to a new generation of diamond celebrities.

* * *

There is not usually much to choose between a major league combination and a first minor league club at this time of the year. The fellows who are in the big show are not taking any unnecessary chances, and as a result the "boners" are able to win many of the exhibition contests. There is another reason why some of the minor league aggregations are so successful in their encounters with the representatives of the Tener and Johnson circuits. They are composed chiefly of young, ambitious ball players who get into condition much faster than do some of the major league clubs who have many veterans on the payroll.

* * *

The average youngster will also play at top speed all of the time when he is opposing a major league club. He is anxious to prove that he possesses plenty of natural ability. He has hopes that his work will attract the attention of the boss of the big league outfit and that he will ultimately be offered a chance to move up a couple of steps on the baseball leader of fame. In many instances young ball players are going at top speed after they have been working out for two or three weeks. They are as good then as they would be on the first of September. In fact, they are often better at this time of the year than they are in September, as the hard, fast pennant race saps their vitality and makes their playing less brilliant.

* * *

The boys have been hitting the ball hard and often here in the South. It reminds me of the closing days of the National League pennant race and the World's Series, when Joe Connolly, Hank Gowdy and the rest of the gang are busting the spheres against the ever-old fences. Connolly has shown very well here in the South and it would not surprise me a whole lot if he played left field during the coming season when a left-handed pitcher is performing for the opposing side. It will be remembered that Ted Cather on some other right-handed batted, replaced the Woodchopper boy in left field when a southpaw faced the Braves in 1914.

* * *

Christy Mathewson is rightfully considered one of the greatest hurlers in the history of baseball. His wonderful record on the mound entitles him to this honor. "Big Six" did some fine pitching during the last few years, but he was never able to face Connolly. "I wish there were a dozen Mathewsons in the National League," remarked Joe the other day we were returning from the ball park. He meant what he said, and he had good cause to make the statement. Joe has always been able to hit Matty. I believe that if one were to look up Connolly's record in games against New York in which Matty pitched, he would discover that the Woonsocket youth had batted for over .500. Joe usually secured a brace of safe blows when Mathewson did the honors on the hill for McGraw's clan, while he often came through with three sweet safeties.

* * *

Most of the members of the team are anxious that Rube Marquard remain in the National League, Sherwood Magee in particular is eager that the big southpaw stay with the Giants and not cast his lot with the Federals. We were always able to hit Marquard and won many a ball game when he was pitching for the Giants. Magee, of course, was with the Phillies last season, but managed to bounce many a ball up against the outfield fence when the honorable Rube was shooting 'em across the plate.

* * *

George Stallings is not the only member of the Braves' outfit who is superstitious. Johnny Evers runs a close second to the boss. President Gaffney secured a new supply of baseball caps before the World's Series last Fall. Evers was presented with a new top piece, but he cast it aside. It seems that Johnny had been wearing a cap which was torn and badly in need of repairs. He was of the opinion, however, that the lid was lucky, and he wore it throughout the series. The keystone king still sports the battered headgear, but says that he will consent to wear a new cap when the league season gets under way.

Boxer Acquitted of Desertion Charges

PARIS, March 27.—A court martial acquitted Louis de Pontheiu, the French lightweight pugilist, on a charge of desertion. De Pontheiu was in the United States when the war broke out and, instead of returning to France to join the colors, he accepted engagements for three fights. When he returned home six months later he was arrested.

Hoppe Takes Lead Away from Mayer

PHILADELPHIA, March 27.—Willie Hoppe, professional champion, has forged ahead of Joseph Mayer, the National amateur titleholder, in their five-block handicap match at 18.3 balk line billiards. The score now stands: Hoppe 1,500, Mayer 829.

CRACK MERMEN READY FOR RACE

The National 220-yard and plunge for distance swimming championships will be decided in the Boston Y. M. C. A. tank tonight. The cream of the swimming world at these events will try for the titles.

Four of the fastest dash men in the world, two from the New York A. C. and two from the Illinois A. C., will be the starters in the 220-yard race. But for the fact that these men are considered unbeatable at this distance, the entry list might have been much larger. Leo Handy, the Brooklyn marvel, was entered for this event, but later wisely pulled out when it was conceded that he had little chance.

The starters in the 220-yard race will be: Harry Hebner, Illinois A. C.; Perry McGillivray, Illinois A. C.; J. C. Wheatley, New York A. C., and Herbert E. Vollmer, New York A. C.

Hebner is the world's record holder for the furlong, having covered the distance in 2 minutes and 21 seconds last year.

Local boys will have a chance to defend their title in the plunge event. Arthur Wales, the present title-holder; H. A. Pugsley and R. P. Bird of the Brookline Gymnasium A. A., and Irving B. Jacquith, William D. Hallatt and C. Stratton of the Brookline Swimming Club, will pit their wares against F. Culman of New York, M. Ryan of the University of Cincinnati and L. D. Hurtig of the Cincinnati A. C. in this event.

Federals Are Hot on Trail of Ivy Wingo

BROWNS WELLS, Miss., March 27.—It is stated here that the powerful-hearted Ivy Wingo is again dickering with Ivy Wingo to return to the fold. Wingo is at New Orleans, within easy reaching distance of the persuasive tones of one Richard Carroll, and it is said that the latter is surprising to see him jump right back again.

Manager S. M. Fallon and Captain Harry A. Nurse of the Harvard crew will meet Captain Sturtevant of Yale tomorrow afternoon in New Haven and settle the final arrangements for the New London regatta in June. The row will probably be upstream, as it was last year.

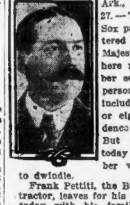
Sox End Third Practice Week

Anxious for Good Weather



HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 27.—The Red Sox party quartered at the Majestic Hotel here now number seventy-one persons. This includes seven or eight Providence players. But beginning today this number will begin to dwindle.

Frank Pettitt, the Boston contractor, leaves for his home late today with his family. It is understood that the proprietor of the cigar counter at the hotel will take a trap to the Panama-Pacific Exhibition, the expenses of the trip coming out of Mr. Pettitt's pocket, as a result of his vain endeavor to beat the catch-dollar devices.

Mr. Pettitt has been a live wire down here and everybody is sorry to have him and his family leave for the North. Also on the same train goes Fred Rourke, of Lowell, who came down from Boston with the first squad on March 6.

Wind Up Third Week of Practice Today.

Today winds up the third and next to the last week of practice at Hot Springs. The players will lay off tomorrow for the usual Sunday rest and start in again on Monday for five days of furious practice.

It is to be hoped the weather will be kind, so that the boys can leave here in good condition. They are in good shape now and with any kind of weather will continue so.

There will be a banquet tendered to the Boston war correspondents by Harry Jones, proprietor of the Hotel Majestic, on Monday night. Mr. Jones is running for Mayor of the city, the election taking place next month. He has been here fifteen years, ago a penniless boy and secured work in a small hotel. Today he runs the Majestic, said to be the best-paying piece of property in Hot Springs.

There was no practice yesterday on account of an early rain storm, which soaked the baseball diamond.

Regulars and Seconds Will Play Game Today.

It is expected that it will be well dried out and Manager Carrigan leads his men to the park today. There will be another game between the Regulars and second team, weather permitting.

Ray Bentley, the Providence pitcher, is suffering from muscular rheumatism. It is very painful and he was "tied in knots" when he awoke. A physician was immediately summoned to relieve him.

Paul Shannon, the Boston newspaper correspondent, is back in Hot Springs again, receiving the sympathies of everyone. His wife died last week.

Hebner Wins 500-Yd. Championship Swim

NEW YORK, March 27.—Harry J. Hebner of the Illinois A. C. won the 500-yard National championship swim at the New York A. C. in beating Joe Wheatley of the Winged Foot organization. Hebner covered the distance in 6m. 21 2-5s.. Wheatley was less than a yard behind. The record is 6m. 20 3-5s.

Tech Harriers Clash in Inter-Class Race

The annual Spring interclass run of the M. I. T. cross-country squad will take place this afternoon at Franklin Field, at 3:30. Allan, Litchfield and Harrington are picked as first place possibilities.

Minneapolis Boy in B.A.A. Marathon Run

The latest entry for the B. A. A. Marathon run is that of W. D. Lawrence, a resident of Minneapolis, where Fritz Carlson, winner of the 1913 run, hails from. Lawrence has an enviable reputation as a long distance runner in his native city, and his appearance here will be watched with close interest.

Mickey Brown Victor on Return to Ring

CHICOPEE, March 27.—Mickey Brown of Malden won six of the twelve rounds of his main bout with Young Merino of New York before the New Atlas A. C. Two of the other rounds were even and the four others favored the Italian.

Love and Spring Bonnets

The Stenographer and the Bookkeeper Discuss the Tender Passion

By DOROTHY DIX

"DO you know why there is always such a bunch of weddings just after Easter?" inquired the Bookkeeper.

"In the Spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love," quoted the Stenographer.

"Um, yes," replied the Bookkeeper, "but there is still another reason."

"Well, to speak perfectly frankly," confessed the Stenographer, "I've always had a hunch that perhaps the men got so worn out by the long, hard Winters and the grippe that they sort of slacked up in their speed and were easier to catch in the Spring than they are in the Fall, when they've just had their vacations and are full of pep, and ginger, and go."

"Right-o," smiled the Bookkeeper, "but all of that doesn't explain fully why a man who is bridal shy, and who balks and kicks at the very thought of being led to the altar the balance of the year, gaily canters up and sticks his neck in the halter in the Spring."

"Speak, O Prophet," implored the Stenographer.

"Well," said the Bookkeeper, "I'm going to tell you, and in so doing I'm going to reveal one of the deep, dark secrets of the masculine heart. The reason men rush into matrimony in the Spring is because of the Spring millinery.

"Those little pill-box turbans perched on your right eyelash are the nifty coons all right, and make a girl look——" began the Stenographer.

"Make a girl look like your grandmother's cat!" interrupted the Bookkeeper. "It isn't the way the girls look in the new hats that gets a man. It is his desire for the hat itself that lures a man into matrimony. He wants to buy dinky little pink-and-blue things with what-you-may-call-ums on them, and as he can't wear them himself, he has to get a wife to do it for him.

"Not many men will admit it, but believe me, kiddo, when men walk along the street and see in the shop windows all the hats that bloom in the Spring for women, and think that we've got to go and buy us a lid that looks like the understuff of a section of stovepipe, or a hard china dinner plate, or a furry drowned cat, we would burst into tears if we weren't ashamed to. We've got pink and blue ribboned souls, and we yearn for giddy raiment, and hats garnished with thin gumboba just as much as women do.

"And what do we get? Just a lot of tubular garments in which every man looks as much like every other man as he possibly can. Why, the only way a man knows the difference between his old suit and his new suit is his tailor's bill. Just think of that, when you're disposed to believe that men get the best end of life."

"Oh, I never envy a man in the Spring time," said the Stenographer, "I wouldn't miss the sacred ecstasy of buying a Spring hat that would make all the other women rubber to be the President of the United States.

"You're on," agreed the Bookkeeper, gloomily, "but what I want to know is why women should have a monopoly of all the pretty clothes? I'm going to organize a Men's Rights Party and demand our share in the pink rosebuds and chiffons."

"I tell you what," said the Stenographer, "we women want the ballot, and you men want the real thing in spring millinery. We'll split with you fifty-fifty."

"That goes here," said the Bookkeeper; "then we men won't have to stand before a display of flower hats and knock 'em for being fool head pieces just because we are so envious that we can't wear 'em. And neither will we be driven to the dread expedient of getting married to get somebody that we can doll up in the fub-dubbery we would like to wear ourselves, but dasn't do it."

In the Wrong Place

Little Kitty had fallen down and cut her knee. Her mother promptly bandaged it first aid, but as it was rather dark and she could not see the ruined stocking, she consequently placed the bandage rather too low. "Oh, mummie," complained the child, "this bandage is not in the right place! I fell down higher up!"

Up-to-the-Minute Jokes

A man tells a tale of a Cockney visitor. They were sitting at the dinner-table when the man from town waved his hand across the table.

"Crikey!" he said, "there's a rum-lookin' blue-bottle on the jam pudding!"

The "blue-bottle," which happened to be a wasp, made a dart for his disturber, alighted on his ear, and signified his disapproval in the usual manner.

"Great Scot!" exclaimed the Londoner, "That blessed fly must have been round the mustard-pot, too!"

Dr. Blank, a professor in the University of Virginia, was on the eve of a trip to Europe, to be absent two years. In pathetic and rather harrowing tones he made his farewell address to the class:

"Dear, I am loath to part from you. This is more than distressing to me. Would that there was a window in my breast, my dear boys, that you might see the innermost recesses of my heart."

A stripling in the rear, seized with a happy thought, shouted:

"Professor, would a pain in the stomach do?"

IT IS SAID that an old lady on receiving a present of some tea, boiled it as directed, then threw away the water and ate the leaves. She didn't understand how people could care for tea.

Old Signs of the Ever New Spring

By STELLA FLORES

Copyright, 1915, by International News Service.

A CURIOUS trilling little note, an unusual softness in the little breeze that fans your cheek, and suddenly a quiver thrills through your whole body—and once again you are freed from the sombre shadows of Winter into the living sunlight of Spring. Just a fleecy lamb and rollicking kid, and two heads close together bending over a tiny nest half hidden in a bower of pink—yet there is nothing in the whole wide world to match its magic. Jewels are dim and dull compared to the light that is veiled by the girl's dark lashes, and gold is beggar's dust compared to the warm, strong heart throbbing in the breast of the man. If you listen very carefully you will find that all the tiny voices of the wildwood take their place in an exquisite harmony of sound that is sweeter than any man-made music. For it is the heart of the world singing.

The Greatest Gift in the World

The Passing Hours, Which Are Either Our Slaves or Our Masters

IT is with time that we buy all the good that comes to us in the world! It is by a wise use of time that we get wisdom and riches and happiness and love and health. And the only reckless spendthrift in all the world is the man or woman who wastes and squanders time.

The only thing in the world that is freely and without handicap the possession of all is time. Every day every one of us has all there is. Every day each of us has precious hours and minutes and seconds to spend—and the freedom of choice as to how we will spend them.

And at the end of the day, you measure nothing but waste on the credit side of your ledger—that marks the one and only absolute waste. A broken friendship may be renewed, a lost fortune may be retrieved, a wasted city may be rebuilt. There is nothing final about most loss in the world. But an act of sun the day is gone—it will never come again—it is over. That is an awe-inspiring thought, and a true one.

There is plenty of time in the world—but none to throw away. Life is for work and patient attempt to understand and accomplish. Idleness, grieving, regret, useless pleasure-seeking, gossip—all these are inefficient thefts from your own, treasure of hours. You deduct them from the grand total of your own life. The day is yours—yours fully and freely. What will you do with it?

Life is for work and growth, for kindness and love. If at the end of every twenty-four hours you have actually done something on which you can look and say, "It is mine, and it is good," you have made a worth-while use of your time. Work doesn't necessarily mean marching along steadily at one job—it takes in interruptions and deviations from the course you have mapped out for yourself. It isn't the plan that counts, it is the effort and growth and ability.

THE START OF A DAY.

Suppose you start in one day with a definite idea of cleaning your china closet and silverware. A message comes from a sick friend who longs to have you come and read to her. If you go with a feeling of irritation because your scheme for the day has been interefered with, you are wasting your time. But if you do the particular thing which lies before you cheerfully and amiably, your day is not wasted. The actual scheme of things is much bigger than you and your personal designs. It takes in more than your little one woman perspective permits you to see.

In reading to a sick friend there is cheer and comfort for her and growth and unselfishness for you, and for both of you the chance of knowledge to be gained. Your time wasn't wasted at all—it was simply spent differently from what you intended. There lies the distinction and the difference.

Every day a mental inventory ought to be taken. At nightfall ask yourself questions like these: Have I grown today? Have I given something to life and learned something from it? Have I actually used my time to advantage? Have I the right to a warm feeling of contentment and accomplishment for the day? Was time to advantage? Have I the right to a warm feeling of contentment and accomplishment for the day? Was time to relaxation and amusement and diversion—"killing time?"

The third for amusement grows in proportion to your placid indulgence of it. If you get to a state of feverish unrest, or your one desire is to go dashing about madly seeking all sorts of forms of idle amusement that appeal to the surface of your consciousness only, you are wasting your time badly.

To be taken out of yourself at the end of a hard day's work through amusement is a very sane proceeding. If you have been teaching a class of geometry all day long, and have arrived at the state of nervous tension where you are likely to lie all night on a sleepless couch, figuring out squares of hypothenuses and radii of circles, you are on your way to a scholarly waste of time which ought to be spent in the recuperation of slumber. And so a little harmless diversion that will rest your tired mind isn't a waste of time at all. It is a prime necessity of your being.

SEIZE UPON WORK

Nothing constructive, nothing that builds up your life and that of those with whom you came in contact can be wasteful. Seize upon work. Make your mind that it occupies your soul, your body, your heart and your mind. Be sure that it is individual and suitable, that it is legitimate and vital. Gather in all its opportunities with a feeling that it is an imperishable part of life, do it thoroughly and well.

Turn your attention to your family relationships. See that you are being fair to them and in them. Make sure that your ambitions are not overshadowing your affections. Give your attention to the tenderness you owe to your friends and to all who love you. See to it that the common duties of your life are being attended to. Study your own talents and develop them to the utmost of your ability. Do your duty to your friends. Bear your sorrows bravely and unflinchingly and with a background of feeling that they will work out for your ultimate good.

When to all these things and the tasks and requirements they bring in their train you have given your attention, make sure your time will be not wasted. Your days will be full with constructive matters, and for the destructive forces of idleness and grieving and unkindness and malice and useless pleasure there will be neither thought nor opportunity.

The "American" Language

Some of the Bright Expressions the English Give Us Credit For

AN English publication makes the following comment on the American "language:"

Almost daily "Americanisms" make a home for themselves in England. We now talk gilbly of "some" crowd, about being "beat to a frazzle" and so forth; and many of us seem to think that every fresh expression which sounds quaint to us has been invented by the great nation on the other side of the Atlantic.

And in many cases this is correct. There seems to be something in the air of the United States which stimulates the inventive genius.

For instances, in the West a clergyman is often known as "a pulpiteer," while the harmonium has been christened "the tooting tub"—a name which is frequently most appropriate.

An "Arkansas toothpick" is a grimly facetious name for a large folding bowie knife, and the inevitable revolver is known variously as "Blackeyed Susan," "blue lightning," "the peacemaker," "the one-eyed scribe," "the pillbox" and "my unconverted friend."

On occasion this gift for inventing suitable names shows a highly commendable tactfulness. For instance, many years after the American Civil War this great struggle was referred to as "the late unpleasantness." Arabs in this tact comes out in describing a negro as an "unclothed American," "black nigger" being an expression only used by one negro to another when he wishes to be particularly insulting.

The Western cowboy knows a white shirt by the name of a "bald-faced" shirt, which may be connected in some way with the white faces of Hereford cattle. Ruts or lumps in the road that shoot your buggy into the air when driving are sarcastically known as "sleeping policemen."

All these "Americanisms" show a great gift for invention, and are delightfully expressive. Surely he was a genius who first said—when being made to feel small or mean—that he felt "knee high to a grasshopper!" But there is another side to the American "language," and one that is frequently lost sight of altogether. This is the survival of a large number of good old British words that have quite died out in this country.

For instance, "pitcher" is a name for a jug that is hardly ever heard over here, though it is in every day use in the States. An American will ask you to pass the "milk-pitcher."

A New Englander will say "hearn," instead of "heard," and when he does so he is using by far the older word of the two. Also, when he says that a man has "announced" something—meaning that he has stolen or plagiarised—he is using the English of Milton.

The American use of the word "square," to describe a hearty meal or an honest man, is to be found, with exactly the same meaning, in the plays of Beaumont and Fletcher.

"Admerica, children are "raised, not reared. That expression, though it may sound quaint to us today, is old English, and is found in the Memoirs of Lord Herbert of Chesterbury. When an American says "I should admire to go to the play tonight," he is using the English of Samuel Pepys, Milton and Shakespeare. Shakespeare also used the word "afeared" for afraid, as many Americans do to this day.

The "almighty" dollar has its counterpart in the works of Ben Johnson, who speaks of "almighty" gold; and when a New Englander refers to a "limekill" instead of limekiln, he is using the English of the seventeenth century. The American use of the word "great" was also in use over here in the bygone days of Queen Elizabeth.

FOOLS AND THEIR FOLLY.

There were fools aplenty through-out the earth,
Since ever time the world began:
But the saddest fool is the maid who says,
"I will never be fooled by a man."

And the maddest fool is the man who swears
That fooled by no woman he'll be;
While the gladdest fool is the fool who smiles,
"They are all silly fools but me."

But the wisest fool in this foolish world
Is no to our follies schooled,
That he laughs as he flirts his jester's bells,
"Why, it's rather a lark to be fooled!"

UNTIL a woman is engaged she uses her lips for speech and her eyes for love-making—after that both are "otherwise engaged."

UNTIL she really grasps the fact that silence is golden a woman is likely to believe the man who endlessly protests that he adores her.

NEWS AND NOTES OF HUB CHURCHES

Every one should go to church on Easter Day.

This is the call of the Boston pastors from their pulpits tomorrow.

It is a day of spiritual obligation. Unusual features in music and floral decorations will mark the day in all the churches. The choirs in many instances will be augmented. Vested choirs in the Episcopal churches will render the most elaborate music of the year. The Te Deums to be sung will be the compositions of many noted composers.

The Boston pastors want Easter Day to appeal not only to church members, but to the vast army of the unchurched.

This will be the keynote of Easter announcements in many pulpits today. Special efforts to be exerted on Easter Day and keep them going to Church.

Boston pastors are co-operating and will use the press more extensively in advancing their church services. They are wise. Another big new enterprise has been started to giving more publicity to their church meetings and through the press.

This is the secret of "Billy" Sunday's success. He knows how to make public his meetings and to keep the people talking about them after he has made them famous. In this he can do a splendid work for the churches.

Tomorrow is Palm Sunday.

Holy Week will be generally observed in Boston by daily services. At the Park Street Church on Tuesday evening and this is the night Dr. H. Grant Person will preach on Tuesday evening and this is the night Dr. Clark, president of the United Societies of Christian Endeavor, on Wednesday. The Rev. Dr. J. Z. Conrad, the pastor, will hold communion service, with meditations on Thursday evening, and on Good Friday evening a special consecration service will be held in the church with an adress on "The Meaning of the Cross," by the Rev. Dr. Conrad.

* * *

The Old South Church will hold a special service on Good Friday. All the Episcopal churches of this city will have many services daily, with special ones for Monday, Thursday and Good Friday.

* * *

"The three hours' service from 12 to 3 p. m. in St. Paul's Cathedral will be one of the most impressive of the year. It will be conducted by Dean Rousmaniere.

"We are going to observe Holy Week in the Ruggles Street Baptist Church by feeding the hungry and clothing the ragged," replied Rev. Dr. G. R. Maguire, pastor of that church, when asked about the work of the church during that week. "You see a hungry man comes to the church and the church. You can't give him religion at once. You must give him everything else something to eat. If he has no shoes, try to get him an old pair. He may have nothing but a torn coat to wear and an apology for trousers.

"How can he get any sort of a job with these clothes? You can't talk Holy Week to that man.

"I am going to feed the hungry and the shivering. But I can't do this alone. There are many good people right here in Boston who are well fed and well clothed, and we want they go to church they can enjoy the music and probably the sermon. They will go to church and be happy in their new clothes on Easter Day.

"I want to make seventy poor unfortunate men happy with food every week, and, if possible, give them something to do to earn a few dollars.

"If any one comes up to my church they will find the door wide open. You will see many ways to make your Christianity practical.

"That is a great block to feed the hungry and give them a pair of shoes. The hardest of all things in Boston today is a pair of old shoes for a poverty stricken man or woman. Don't judge people by their footgear when they apply to you for a job.

"This is my way of observing Holy Week. I do not intend to have any more services, but I intend to do just what I have said."

Miss Harriette Carter, employed by the Young Women's Christian Association to visit the Chinese of this city, has called upon the Chinese in 1,051 places. Of these 21 were Chinese stores, 42 were restaurants and 48 homes where Chinese mothers are caring for their children. "I have visited in all 60 Chinese women," she said today. "Everywhere I have received most cordial greetings."

The Rev. Dr. Waldron, superintendent of city missions of the Congregational churches in Boston, tells this story, showing how to get close to a small boy on the city streets and bring him into the church:

"It is about twenty-five years ago," said Missionary Waldron, "one rainy Sunday I called to a little boy on the streets of Boston to go with me to the church Sunday school. But he afterward tried hard to persuade him not to go, as it rained so hard, but Cindy wanted to come, and he was there.

8. Every sign shall be properly secured or suitably covered and protected from the weather, and shall be subject to the Joint Board.

You Cannot Muzzle Disease Germs

But You Can Reduce Their Number by Many Billions, and the Best Way to Do So Is by Exterminating the House Fly

Copyright, 1915, by the Star Company.

Through the long Winter the house fly has been hibernating in the cracks in the floor, under the snow piles in the streets, beneath the garbage heaps that inefficient city governments allow to collect on the outskirts and on vacant lots.

The first few warm days waken the fly and start him on his travels. Naturally, after a long fast, his first thought is food, and the best places to get food suitable to his needs are the kitchens and corner grocery stores.

To these he journeys, therefore, pausing on the way to alight on the clothing and the hands and face of every human being he meets in his travels.

The fly is a very unclean insect. He prefers filth to any other surroundings—filth that breeds disease and swarms with the germs of disease.

In the Winter quarters selected by the fly are billions of germs, and these, either active or dormant, manage to transfer themselves to the fly in very large numbers, and to travel forth with him when he begins his Spring wanderings.

The assortment is always very complete. There are scarlet fever germs, diphtheria germs, measles germs, chickenpox germs, and the germs of infantile paralysis and cerebro-spinal meningitis, besides many that are less dangerous, on the many feet and antennae of every fly that comes out of his hiding place in the Spring.

Millions of those germs will never harm anybody. They will be brushed off on the ground, killed by the oxygen in the air, swept away in the sewers to the ocean.

But other millions of them will be deposited by the fly on the lips or on the fingers of babies and children and adults, and, under conditions favorable for the propagation of disease, they will colonize and begin the kind of destruction of tissue that characterizes the particular form of disease that they spread.

More people are killed by flies in America than by railroads, automobiles and bullets put together. Indeed, a war in which the death list from wounds was comparable to the death list piled up through the agency of flies would be a very dreadful war.

But automobile and railroad fatalities are accidental, and war casualties are due to a flaming up of human passions which cannot be cooled in a few days.

The destruction by flies is absolutely preventable. Kill the flies, exterminate them utterly, and you will do the next best thing to muzzling all the deadly disease germs.

The Spring is the time to begin the warfare on the fly. The first thing to do is to keep them out of the house, by carefully screening the windows, and by destroying quickly all those that manage to get in through opened doors.

The next thing—and this is highly important—is to cut off their base of supplies at the grocery stores. The grocer can do that, and he will do it if you insist upon it.

Make him keep covered by screens everything he sells that a fly will eat—fruit, vegetables, sugar, crackers, cheese—products of every kind that are sold by bulk.

Careful grocers do this already. Every grocer will do it if his customers insist upon it, for it is inexpensive, and requires only a little care.

After the grocery store is attended to see that there are no heaps of fly-breeding material left in the yards or in the street.

Set fly traps wherever possible, and do not forget to keep a "fly swatter" handy with which to destroy all the blockade runners.

If the people of any given city will set out with determination to get rid of the flies in their community they can come pretty near doing it in a season.

They can at least vastly reduce the number, and make the final extinction complete in a year or two.

It is a work that will require time and unflagging industry, but it will save thousands of lives and prevent many cases of serious illness, and it is well worth doing.

America's Rebirth

By ELBERT HUBBARD

AMERICA has been born again.

Everything that grows, evolves and becomes has to be born again.

Growth and progress are not a steady, even process.

America has been scrapping a lot of old ideas, notions, superstitions.

The real fact was Uncle Sam has been so successful and prosperous that he just shuffled along in the good old way, thinking that certainly no harm could come to him.

It is quite true that in some instances big business manifested an indifference toward the public weal and needed birchings.

But within the last three months things have taken a turn for the better.

We have come to recognize that the railroad business is the second most important business in the world.

First in importance is farming, because we get our food out of the soil. Next comes tranportation, for everything has to be moved before it possesses value.

* * *

America is the only one of the great powers that is at peace.

Doubtless the war will be over within a year, and it will be for America to feed the starving millions, and also for America in great degree to rebuild the destroyed homes and factories, the towns and cities of Europe.

The United States and Canada are bound to profit by this great coming boom in business as North America has never profited before.

Wealth will be syphoned in this direction. Every one who wants to work will find work. Wages will be higher, and factories are going to run night and day.

This is America's opportunity.

* * *

Sentiment rules the world. Ambition, animation, courage are the things that count.

Today the term, "American spirit," is no vacuous, idle sound. The thing exists, and that spirit is the spirit of co-operation, mutuality and reciprocity.

Animation abounds; ambition is in the air; courage is in every breast, and the whole is flavored with the spirit of brotherhood.

This is the spirit that builds, creates and causes a country to grow great.

When Pericles was accused of not being a great soldier he replied: "True, but I can do something else. I can take a small village and make out of it a great and beautiful city."

And today the spirit of Pericles lives in every city in America.

Let us be good to Pericles.

Remember "Ripe Olive Day"

OUT in California, they are celebrating March 31 as "Ripe Olive Day." If the celebration shall serve to introduce more widely in the East the delightful fruit, it will have accomplished a substantial good work.

There was a day when eating olives was an accomplishment. One practised secretly in private till the taste was acquired; then with proud nonchalance nibbled the dainty at the next occasion.

But an olive, once eaten, sets its mark on the eater. He wants more, and more; and if this is true of the ordinary olive seen in the East—which is green when pickled—it is equally true of the ripe olive.

There are a few places in Boston where ripe olives may be bought. But if enough of you ask your grocer for them, he is going to order a consignment. The ripe olive is almost black in color, with a slight yellowish tint. It is somewhat softer than the green fruit—in the pickled form—and is much more satisfactory to the taste.

In California, the ripe olive is eaten "in the natural state," but in the East we are scarcely acquainted with ripe olives except in pickled form. Even so, their advantage over the green fruit needs only a taste to be demonstrated.

The ripe olive is to California a rich, nutritious food. The ripe fruit contains every element necessary to life; and its particular value lies in the fourteen per cent. of olive oil. Olive oil is a fine medicine, possible for persons with troublesome digestions, as most of us know. And it is a delicious relish. Its use as food is becoming more and more the universal rule.

The history of the olive deserves study. The tree is one of the oldest known. For thousands of years it has been cultivated, and its fruit used as food. The oil is a commodity that has been in use in Southern Europe and the Orient since long before the Christian Era.

Shortly after this country was discovered the Spaniards struck into the tropical segment, gold hunting. They presently settled in California and elsewhere; and as they established themselves, so also they established the olive tree.

The Spanish missionaries of California used the ripe fruit as a food; and their longevity is by many scientists attributed to this fact.

Physicians say that appendicitis is unknown among those who eat ripe olives regularly—that the oil contained so bountifully in the fruit is extremely beneficial to the whole alimentary canal, keeping it in perfect condition.

The pulp of the olive is rich in protein, a fundamental element of human food.

Give the ripe olives to your children. You will find the fruit appeals to them and you will also find that it abolishes the digestive ills of childhood.

Buy a bottle of ripe olives on March 31, and you will continue to buy them through the year.

Evelyn Nesbit Wants to Know--

How ANYBODY Could Expect a Little Boy of the Express-Wagon Tin-Whistle Scout-Suit Age to Be Happy in a Modern Big-City Hotel? An Interview with Evelyn Nesbit Will Be ONE of the Features of Tomorrow's Sunday AMERICAN. OTHER Features? At Least a Score!

BOYS who battle with adversity, slay the Dragon of Want and reach the Pinnacle of Success have BOOKS written about them.

Somebody, some day, will write a storybook about Evelyn Nesbit. It will be a sympathetic story. It will help all who read it.

Ten years ago little Evelyn Nesbit was hurled all of a sudden from the pony ballet to the front pages of the newspapers. She remained in the ugly headlines for weeks, months. Then she went back to the theatre. Her name was big upon the billboards. In flaming letters of electricity it appeared over the entrances to halls and theatres.

The favored playhouses were jammed. Everybody, apparently, was inspired by the desire to see this girl who had been "in the papers."

The wise men of theatrical alleys and side doors, the know-it-alls of the cafes, the cynics of the boulevards, cocked their heads significantly and said it could not last.

"In three months," said Worldly Wiseman, "six at the most, the Girl will be as completely a thing of the past as minstrel shows, roller skating, plain dances and ex-champions of the world."

Oh! the wise men! who know—nothing.

An excellent line, that which they throw upon the screen in moving picture temples to stir the faculty of imagination: TIME PASSES.

Twice, every day this week, Evelyn Nesbit has been appearing in Boston at Keith's Theatre, one of America's most beautiful houses of entertainment, and, twice every day, largely BECAUSE of Evelyn Nesbit, the house has been "all sold out."

Men and women have gone to see her and have come away to report, sometimes as if in amazement, "She can DANCE!"

She CAN dance. Moreover, she actually is LEARNING TO ACT. She aspires to be a GREAT actress. She knows that success can be accomplished only by HARD WORK. She is working hard, therefore, and she WILL work harder.

A reporter for the Sunday AMERICAN talked with Miss Nesbit yesterday in her dressing room. A report of the interview will be printed in the Sunday AMERICAN tomorrow.

WHY?

Miss Nesbit leaves Boston tonight for the "next stand," and we have no means of knowing whether it will be six months or six years before she appears among us again, so the Story of Evelyn Nesbit's Success can have no "advertising value."

WHY, then?

Well, why NOT?

Why not the story, ONCE, of a GIRL who has received a terrible jolt from Fate and who has come up smiling to show the world that there is something real, something fine, something golden in her? Most of us have known the secret joy of getting out of bed again, to touch a match to the wick, and pull "Ragged Dick" or "Tattered Tom" or "Mark the Match Boy" from its place of concealment under the pillow. Most of us have cried or laughed with Horatio Alger or Oliver Optic heroes and have cheered and been cheered by their various victories. Why not ONCE, the story of a girl who has fought and is winning?

"A very human young woman," the Sunday AMERICAN reporter tells us, "who smilingly says she THOUGHT she was an actress, to begin with, but shortly convinced herself that, far from being able to sing and dance, she did not WALK correctly! Told me all about her dream of a home forever in Fairview, a Pittsburgh suburb. Says she is making lots of money, and saving 90 per cent. of it. Tells about Pompom, her boy. Says she misses him more than she cares to talk about." I asked her why he isn't with her, and she wanted to know if I think a hotel the place for small boys of the express-wagon tin-whistle and scout-suit age. Then she laughed! She laughs like a kid. I think she IS a kid, and that that is why people like her so much!"

Our young friend is at the moment hard at work upon his story of a Talk With Evelyn Nesbit, About Success, and Hard Work, and Things. It will be printed in the Sunday AMERICAN tomorrow, together with some never-before-published photographs of an American girl who is making good and who is willing to share her golden secret with other folk.

"Secret"?

ALSO in the Sunday AMERICAN tomorrow:

An intimate study of Mr. Tristram Speaker, one of the greatest batsmen of the world, by Mr. Julian Hawthorne, one of the premier journalists thereof. Written at Hot Springs, in the State called Ark-ansaw, with all the brilliancy of "J. H." at his excellent best.

"The Cost of High Living," as evidenced once more in the peculiar case of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Cole, who have gone to Charlestown and Sherborn, respectively, for the larceny of twenty thousand dollars from the Collateral Loan Company. Read the story of the Coles, young friends, and be content with what the boss hands you in the envelope.

"The Human Side of John Quinn, High Sheriff of the County of Suffolk," who, by the same token, has no OTHER side. "Honest John," brother-goodfellow to hundreds in their blue days of hard luck, has been taken to the hospital. A Quinn story is therefore timely. This one, we hope, will please the popular invalid.

"The Woman Who Successfully Wore Trousers," an intimate tale of the strange life at Chicopee, in Massachusetts, of Florentine Beaudoin, who, because Man is better paid, wore men's clothing for thirty years, and, as farmhand, grocer's clerk and teamster, did the WORK of a man. Queer old world!

WATERTOWN, just beyond Cambridge, is some fussed over the story of the town officials—remember Gilbert and Sullivan's Mikado?—who holds two or three jobs and appears unwilling to let go. There is also the story of Watertown's story of the teasingly truant taxes. A lively story, about Watertown, FOR ALL, the town.

The FIRST TUESDAY IN APRIL, when town and cities take their annual inventories of citizens with the right to vote, will be ANOTHER date to make a note of in the struggle of the Town of Middleton to rid itself of gamblers, gambling and GRAFT. A Sunday AMERICAN story brings the history down to date. More, later.

All about this year's Hasty Pudding show at Harvard, most notable theatrical offering of the college year. They CALL it "The Fattest Calf," and we are TOLD that the five young gentlemen responsible, D. C. Josephs, J. A. Richards, C. A. Herter, F. Hyde and H. Meyer, have herein been guilty of kidding Mr. Shakespeare. BE that as it MAY, the Sunday AMERICAN offers specimen lines and sample lyrics from "The Fattest Calf" and hereby guarantees that they will please.

A page of stories by and about Irvin Cobb, funmaker, philosopher and fictionist. Illustrated. To make you laugh.

Cartoons of Uncle Sam, from current German periodicals, to make you NOT laugh.

War stuff? "Obstacles Confronting the Allies," by Hilaire Belloc, and "Militarism to End? If the Allies Win," by Guglielmo Ferrero.
